Foreword

During our three years at Pinkerton we have been many things:

We have been students, sitting in our classrooms listening intently to the members of the faculty and working diligently on our assignments.

We have been classmates, making friends while participating in activities.

We have been leaders, learning how to assume responsibility and how to accomplish objectives.

We have been athletes, training hard for the big games and participating in interclass sports.

We have been musicians, learning to master marches and presenting concerts.

We have been amateur thespians, successfully presenting the Junior and Senior plays.

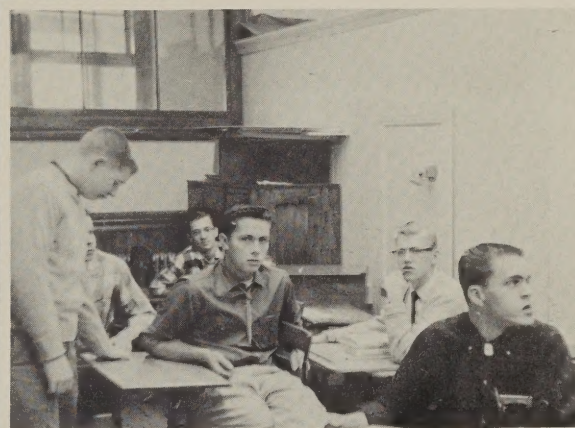

As we leave Pinkerton, we hope this yearbook will remind us of "all the things we are."

English

Weekly themes, book reports, grammar, and vocabulary only scratch the surface of the English courses. In order to meet the needs of the college-bound students and those who are entering business after graduation, the department gives practice in all four aspects of the Language Arts-reading, writing, speaking, and listening. Helping the students to develop their ability to use the English language effectively is an integral part of the program.

English Department

Standing: Mary LaCouture, Priscilla Lockwood, Claire Tremblay. Seated: Olive Abbott.

Senior English

Social Studies

Standing: James Riddervold, Robert Perry. Seated: Ann Garland.

Social Studies

Although the social studies department embraces courses from history and economics to psychology, it has a single goal: to improve human relations. This end is attained by such different means as visiting the state capitol, debating political questions and sending white rats through mazes. By learning about themselves and their roles in society, students come to a broader understanding of international relationships.

American History

Algebra II

Students who climb the steep stairs to the math room every day get plenty of exercise, both physically and mentally. Besides plane geometry and calculus. These courses not only prepare them thoroughly for college studies, but also discipline their minds for orderly, logical thinking.

Chemistry

Dissecting frogs and mixing pungent chemicals are only part of a program which combines laboratory experience with classroom work. In Biology, Chemistry and Physics classes, students learn not only theory but also its application to their lives. They also begin to understand the complex interrelations between the sciences.

Languages

Enthusiastic classes singing Spanish folk songs, presenting a play in French, or participating in a Latin club meeting underline the department's emphasis on conversational use of foreign languages. Along with grammar, students learn to appreciate the customs and culture of the country whose native tongue they are struggling to master.

Music Department

Nearly every hour music is heard from the Chapel, whether it be 120 singers rehearsing a Glee Club selection or a solitary trumpeter mastering a tricky passage. Enrollment in the band and choruses is at an all-time high, with the instrumental program receiving special new impetus.

Agriculture

Training boys in agriculture and agricultural business is carried out in three major phases. Class work covers subjects like animal husbandry, agronomy and horticulture. Shop teaches wood and metal work, machinery repair and electricity. Finally, the school farm affords facilities for practical work in forestry, dairying, sheep raising and poultry.

Home Economics

Home economics has come a long way since the limited cooking and sewing courses of another generation. Centered about the family, the department gives insight into all aspects of modern home-making by offering subjects like child care, nutrition, consumer education and finances.

Commercial Department

The clackety-clack of typewriters and adding machines means that the commercial students are at work. In typing, shorthand, bookkeeping and office practice, they are preparing for positions in the business world.

Library

The combination of a spacious new building, a varied and continually growing stock of books, and Mrs. Cornwell's efficient management make our library outstanding. The library offers source material to supplement classroom texts; but more important, it stimulates an interest in books that will help us continue our education long after we have left Pinkerton.

SENIORS

Of all the things we are, we enjoy most being seniors. During this year we have reached the climax of our Academy career. The following pages present a gallery of the faces that have made this year memorable.

History Recalls All The

To begin our Class History we must recall the first day we came to P.A. as sophomores. Although we made many mistakes, the upperclassmen soon taught us that they were there to correct us. Our realization of this came on Initiation Day when the Juniors had us appear as L'il Abners and Daisy Maes. Soon after we were officially introduced to the Trustees and the faculty at the Sophomore Reception. The upperclassmen enjoyed seeing us in the Grand March adorned with pink and blue bonnets with Rusty West being pushed in the baby carriage.

We were soon proud to be part of the student body and to participate in all P. A.'s activities. We cheered at the football games and we boasted that some of our classmates were on the cheering and football squads.

Our junior year brought the satisfaction of knowing that we were upperclassmen! We certainly enjoyed initiation day of the sophomores. How proud we were when we ordered and received our Class Rings. At last we were beginning to find out what the Class of '60 really meant.

With Christmas vacation over, we realized it was now our turn to give the Junior Prom. Getting ready was half the enjoyment. We'll not forget the beauty of the chapel the night of the dance. In the spring, we had try-outs for the Junior Play. As the date came nearer, we sold tickets and urged everyone to see "Maybe You're Wrong". As the year closed, we watched our senior friends practicing for graduation knowing our turn would come soon.

Things We Are.

Before we realized it, we were walking up those honored front steps for seniors "only". We were overjoyed to have three of our senior home rooms in the beautiful new Saltmarsh Library. Although we did miss our old library, the new one proved better equipped to serve the school. We found that our faculty had increased because of the additional classrooms and pupils.

Our senior year was filled with exciting events-the Corn Roast, the Sophomore Reception and the play, Girl From Outer Space. In fact, each week seemed to bring something new. When senior pictures were taken, we realized that our year was half over. Ordering caps and gowns, writing essays and Class Day parts brought graduation that much closer.

Our Baccalaureate service will always be remembered by us as an impressive event, mainly because we appeared in our caps and gowns for the first time. The senior Howl was great fun and we really lived each moment of it. Class Day brought us one step closer to graduation. We enjoyed being with the underclassmen and hearing the class parts. We felt we were leaving our senior privileges in good hands, the Class of 1961. Graduation found us quietly reflective as we realized we were leaving our happy Pinkerton years forever.

ACTIVITIES

We are a class of varied interests and the activities satisfy this appetite for diversity. Dances, concerts, dramatics, and clubs appeal to the students.

First Row: Broes, Hatch, Stella, Bettez, Hayward, Sanerib, La Porte, Tsetsilas, Misiaszek, Lake, Noddin, Yanuszewski. Second Row: DiMarzio, Low, Perry, Pierce, McKay, Misiaszek, Ketchum, Higgins.

Manning, Warren, Clay. Third Row: Mr. Root, Raybeck, Trobec, Levesque, Swift, MacDonald, Nichols, Sutton.

Lettermen Support Administration

Officers

R. LaPorte, Vice-President; R. Sanerib, President; R. Hayward, Secretary-Treasurer.

The main purpose of the Lettermen's Association is to assist Mr. Hackler and the faculty in keeping order in school and at school activities. One of our newer duties is to take care of the cafeteria during the four lunch periods.

For the first time Scholastic letters have been given to students who have maintained an average of ninety and have taken an active part in school affairs.

During the Christmas vacation the Lettermen sponsored an Alumni dance, adding to the enjoyment of the school year.

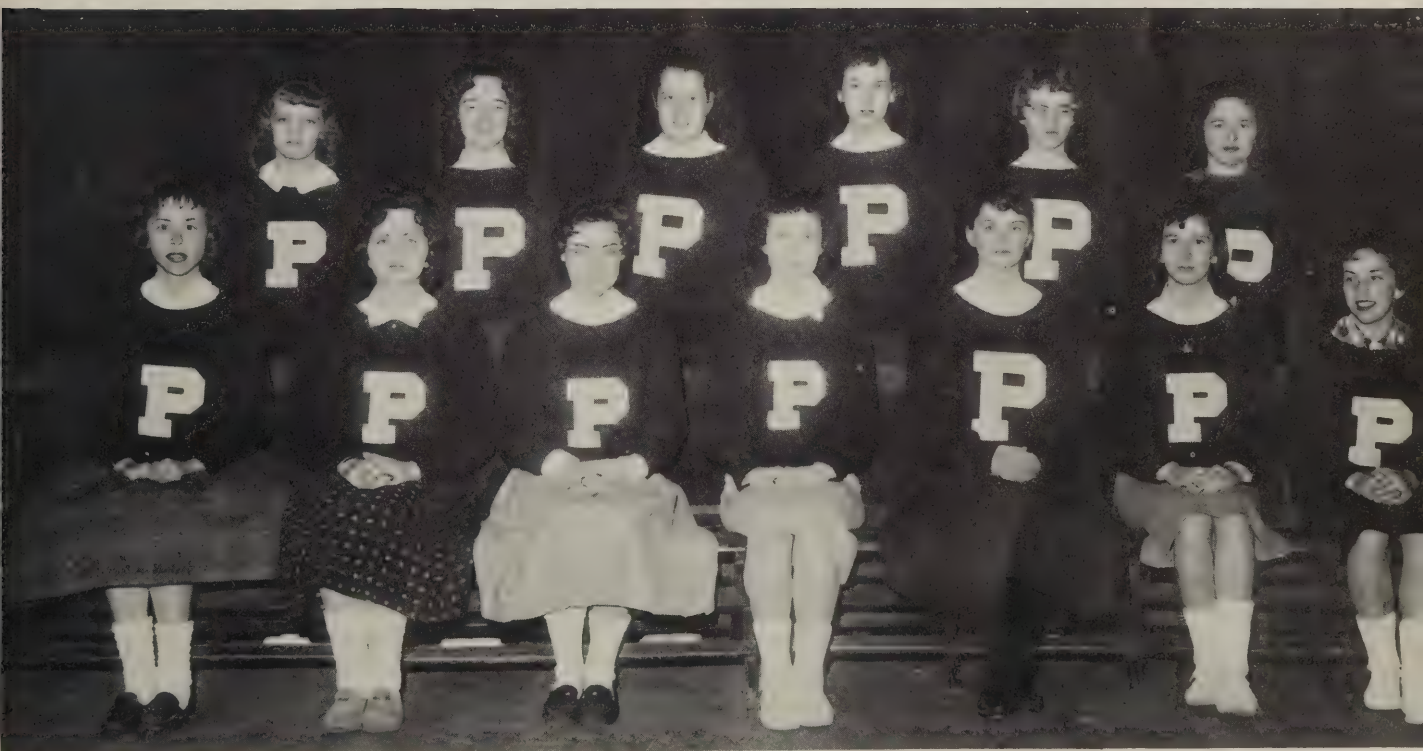

It is a privilege to wear a Pinkerton letter. The girls, leaders of the student body, strive to be worthy of it. Besides selling the famous red and white beanies and the P.A. banners, we have served as "watchdogs" to see that the students weren't in the halls and basement when they shouldn't be. Keeping the Chapel in silence has also been one of our tasks. Just as we take pride in wearing our letters, we also like to feel that we have helped to make school life more pleasant for everyone.

STUDENT COUNCIL

R. Broes, Treasurer; L. Audette, Vice-President; C. Davis, Secretary; D. Raybeck, President.

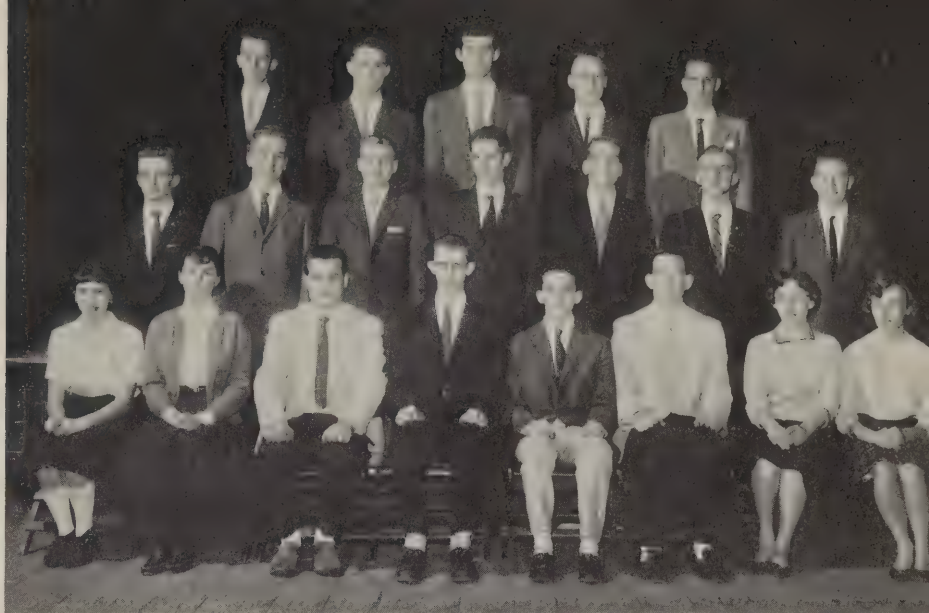

The Student Council, consisting of three members from each class, has long been an important organization at the Academy. Each year the Council sponsors a fund raising project. Proceeds from selling jerseys this year helped to purchase decorations for a beautiful Christmas tree in the Saltmarsh Library. Council members receive, under Mr. Hackler's direction, practical experience in assuming responsibility in student government.

BUDDING SCIENTISTS AND SHUTTER-BUGS

The Science Club is an organization of seniors and juniors who wish to work with lab equipment and discuss topics of scientific interest. Besides lab work and discussions, the club has taken several trips to lectures, museums, and places where natural history may be studied. Topics of discussion have included the origin of the universe and man. In the lab, static electricity, among other things, has been studied. With Mr. Coller as our adviser, the short time spent on Monday nights has been most rewarding.

Shutterbugs around Pinkerton are those zealous individuals who go about the campus armed with a camera. No one is free from the possibility of being "shot". At meetings, held regularly under the direction of Mr. Perry, films are developed and problems of photography are discussed. Many of the pictures in this yearbook were taken by the members of the club.

MUSIC AND HARMONY

The Glee Club has the distinction of being Pinkerton's largest—108 voices. Our annual Christmas concert delighted the audience with traditional carols. The spring concert featuring music from Mozart to Broadway hits was equally successful.

Glee Club Entertains Locally

Chapel Choir

The Chapel Choir is the smaller, select singing group, specializing in acappella music. In conjunction with the Glee Club and Sophomore Girls' Choir, it has entertained at the winter and spring concerts and Chapel programs.

Band

This seems to be a year of firsts. The band has several distinctions of its own. It is larger than ever and for the first time we march into Chapel to martial music. There are actually two bands, the more advanced students and the beginners. In February the band presented a concert.

RECAPTURING MEMORABLE MOMENTS

Typists

Patricia Sosnowski; Dianne Sutton, Head Typist; Bonnie Dodge.

The Literary Staff, under the direction of Miss Abbott, and the Business Staff, led by Mr. Knowles, have worked since the beginning of the year to make this year's Critic a success.

The members of the Literary Staff have spent many hours planning the theme, writing copy, gathering pictures, and doing the myriad things necessary to make a yearbook.

The Business Staff, with equal zeal, solicited sponsors to make our yearbook a success.

"Poor little kid; she has problem parents, too!"

MAYBE YOU'RE WRONG

For many of us, the Junior play was an outstanding event. When we began rehearsals in March, the play seemed so far away but how quickly opening night appeared and we found ourselves presenting "Maybe You're Wrong." We'll certainly remember how the teenagers tried to reform their parents and with some success, too. Of course, a highlight was the play party afterwards, but most of all, we cherish our tremendous success!

GIRL FROM OUTER SPACE

Come on, Queen Cat; let's jive!

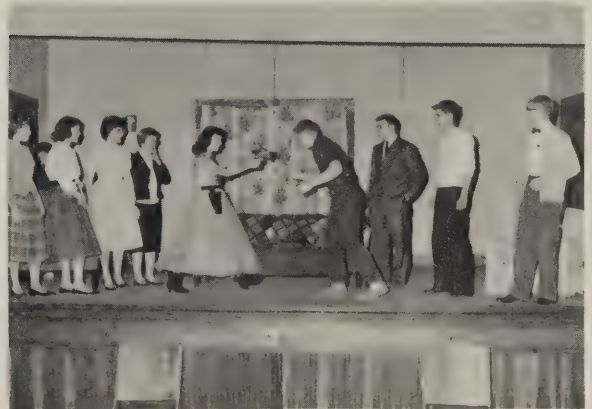

On December 10, at 8:00, the Derry public witnessed the arrival of "Zelda", the mysterious space girl from Abracadabra—Her mission? To study earth specimens, of course! Thus we pleased one of P. A.'s largest audiences with something different in the "Girl From Outer Space". Who will ever forget the atomic ray gun that resulted in "frozen" statues on the stage? How many times after the play the cast said, "I want to do it all over again!"

Junior Prom

The highlight of our Junior year, the Prom, was long anticipated by our patient classmates. The enthusiastic committee decorated our chapel with yellow moons, delicate orchids, and streamers seeming to reach to the sky.

The evening exceeded our expectations and we danced on a floor of clouds with girls in lovely gowns and their handsome escorts.

The evening was enchanted by the music of the Fred Hilse Combo. The night of February thirteenth was one we'll remember when we look back on all the things we were.

Busy with Class Activities

Initiating the sophomores, ordering class rings, planning and giving the Junior Prom are only a few of the activities that have kept the juniors busy this year. The Junior Play and Declamations also gave the class a chance to show their talents in addition to having many members on the athletic teams. A busy year has brought the juniors closer to their goal—being seniors.

Pinkerton with all its traditions was a confusing place to the sophomores when they entered in September as the Class of 1962. There were new friends to be made, teachers to meet and we had to learn our way around the campus. After initiation — a humiliating day but fun, too, we enjoyed the Sophomore Reception. Soon we settled down to enjoy the many activities of Pinkerton.

During three years of sports activities we have become good athletes. Training and competition have taught us the cooperation that makes this one of the most important of all the things we are.

Another Touchdown

About fifty boys reported to the field house for the first practice of the year. Mr. Knowles took charge of the backfield while Mr. Riddervold handled the line and, under the supervision of Mr. Root, we started practicing for the first game of the season. We coasted to our first victory, beating Sanborn by a score of 26-0.

But after getting some good breaks, things didn't work out too well for us. Hampton and Towle defeated us as did the State Champs from Exeter. Following Exeter came Manchester West, a team that was very strong and considered a sure thing to beat us. We worked hard for that game and it showed as we outplayed them all the way, on defense as well as offense, and pulled one of the major upsets of the year by defeating them 48-30.

This year Kennett High was on our schedule for the first time but unfortunately the game was rained out. The following Saturday found us on a wet field and we lost our fourth game of the season to Woodbury.

Our final game, against Somersworth, was a close contest all the way. Although we scored a touchdown in the last minutes of play, the clock ran out on us and Somersworth won by six points.

BASKETBALL

Pinkerton Academy ended the 1959-1960 season with an impressive record of 13 victories against 1 defeat. During the course of the season, Pinkerton annexed the Southeastern League Conference Title by posting an 11 and 1 league record. Most of the games were undecided until the closing minutes with perhaps our most impressive victories being the 62-61 win over Newmarket and the 77-69 win over Winnacunnet. In each game, Pinkerton overcame a large halftime lead by the visitors and went on to win.

In the Class M Tournament, Pinkerton defeated Thayer 72-49 and Towle 66-55, but lost to Kennett 43-38 in the semi-finals at Durham.

The Pinkerton team, coached by Robert Perry, was built around three seniors, two juniors, and one sophomore. High scorers for Pinkerton for the year were Bruce Misiaszek and Alex Tssetsilas with 20 and 16 point averages per game respectively.

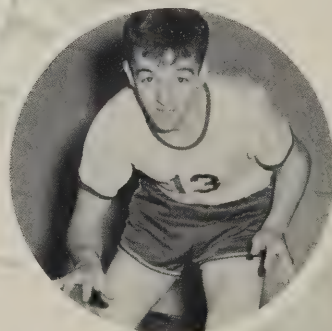

The Pinkerton junior varsity, coached by Donald Lints, also enjoyed a successful season, winning 11 and losing 3.

Through ten exciting hard-played games, the girls' basketball team demonstrated spirit and sportsmanship for which the Pinkerton teams are noted. Coaches Lockwood and Cournoyer worked hard to give us a rewarding experience and a good time which we will never forget. Captain Kathy Akins kept the team's morale high and the season ended with a record of 5 wins and 5 losses.

Chee! Cha! Rah! Rah!, filled the air as the Pinkerton cheerleaders stepped out on the field at our first football game.

During the football and basektball seasons, they cheered with the Pep Club and the students at many exciting games. It was an honor to cheer for our teams.

As representatives of the school, the cheerleaders conducted themselves with friendliness and poise.

INTERCLASS ATHLETICS

Touch football, one of the more vigorous intramural sports at Pinkerton, has been enjoyed by many students during the noon activity period. Mr. Lints acted as referee and posted the scores on the bulletin board.

Spring brought out the mighty ball swingers who participated in the annual softball tournament. All of the sports give the students a chance to participate in exciting games.

Our introduction to field hockey was an enthusiastic and exciting event. We made fun of each other wearing those awkward shin guards, but we enjoyed the competition that each class provided on the field. As seniors, led by Captain Yolande Ruel, we were eager to win the trophy. Unfortunately we had misfortunes and were unable to achieve our goal. We will always remember those sticks flying in all directions at each game.

...PROVIDE FUN AND COMPETITION

In softball we gave our opponents strong competition in each game. Even though our senior year was full of activities, we did not neglect softball. Everyone waited for the day one of us would hit the ball through a window in our new home rooms, but luckily, we never hit that far. Under the leadership of Peggy Ann Root, we enjoyed many exciting games.
